

Imagine a thief with the ability to steal the belongings of everyone in this neighborhood? What about a thief that could steal the communications of the residents including stealing of their identity?

Our “neighborhood” consists of PCs connected to the network. The first line of defense is the communications equipment. Let’s protect them with the appropriate security settings!